

About The NCS™

The National Community Survey™ (The NCS™) report is about the “livability” of Albany. A livable community is a place that is not simply habitable, but that is desirable. It is not only where people do live, but where they want to live. The survey was developed by the experts from National Research Center at Polco.

Great communities are partnerships of the government, private sector, community-based organizations and residents, all geographically connected. The NCS captures residents’ opinions considering ten central facets of a community:

- Economy
- Mobility
- Community Design
- Utilities
- Safety
- Natural Environment
- Parks and Recreation
- Health and Wellness
- Education, Arts, and Culture
- Inclusivity and Engagement

POWERED BY POLCO

The report provides the opinions of a representative sample of 393 residents of the City of Albany collected from November 28, 2023 to January 9, 2024. The margin of error around any reported percentage is 5% for all respondents and the response rate for the 2023 survey was 14%. Survey results were weighted so that the demographic profile of respondents was representative of the demographic profile of adults in Albany.

How the results are reported

For the most part, the percentages presented in the following tabs represent the “percent positive.” Most commonly, the percent positive is the combination of the top two most positive response options (i.e., excellent/good, very safe/somewhat safe, etc.). On many of the questions in the survey respondents may answer “don’t know.” The proportion of respondents giving this reply is shown in the full set of responses included in the tab “Complete data.” However, these responses have been removed from the analyses presented in most of the tabs. In other words, the tables and graphs display the responses from respondents who had an opinion about a specific item.

Comparisons to benchmarks

NRC’s database of comparative resident opinion is comprised of resident perspectives gathered in surveys from over 500 communities whose residents evaluated the same kinds of topics on The National Community Survey. The comparison evaluations are from the most recent survey completed in each community in the last five years. NRC adds the latest results quickly upon survey completion, keeping the benchmark data fresh and relevant. The communities in the database represent a wide geographic and population range. In each tab, Albany’s results are noted as being “higher” than the benchmark, “lower” than the benchmark, or “similar” to the benchmark, meaning that the average rating given by Albany residents is statistically similar to or different (greater or lesser) than the benchmark. Being rated as “higher” or “lower” than the benchmark means that Albany’s average rating for a particular item was more than 10 points different than the benchmark. If a rating was “much higher” or “much lower,” then Albany’s average rating was more than 20 points different when compared to the benchmark.

The survey was administered after the COVID-19 pandemic, a time of challenge for many local governments. While we provide comparisons to national benchmarks, it is important to note that much of the benchmark data was collected prior to or during the pandemic. This may impact how your City’s 2023 ratings compare to other communities’ ratings from the past five years.

Trends over time

Trend data for Albany represent important comparison data and should be examined for improvements or declines.¹ Deviations from stable trends over time represent opportunities for understanding how local policies, programs, or public information may have affected residents’ opinions. Changes between survey years have been noted with an arrow and the percent difference. If the difference is greater than seven percentage points between the 2020 and 2023 surveys, the change is statistically significant.

1. In 2020, The NCS survey was updated to include new and refreshed items. Consequently, some of the trends may be impacted due to wording modifications that could have potentially altered the meaning of the item for the respondent.

Methods

Selecting survey recipients

All households within the City of Albany were eligible to participate in the survey. A list of all households within the zip codes serving Albany was purchased from Polco's mailing vendor, Go-Dog Direct, based on updated listings from the United States Postal Service. Since some of the zip codes that serve the City of Albany households may also serve addresses that lie outside of the community, the exact geographic location of each housing unit was compared to community boundaries using the most current municipal boundary file. Addresses located outside of the City of Albany boundaries were removed from the list of potential households to survey. Each address identified as being within city boundaries was further identified as being within one of the three wards. From that list, addresses were randomly selected as survey recipients, with multi-family housing units (defined as those with a unit number) sampled at a rate of 5:3 compared to single family housing units.

An individual within each household was randomly selected using the "birthday method". The birthday method selects a person within the household by asking the "person who most recently had a birthday" to complete the questionnaire. The underlying assumption in this method is that day of birth has no relationship to the way people respond to surveys. This instruction was contained in the introduction of the survey.

Conducting the survey

The 3,000 randomly selected households received mailings beginning on November 28, 2023 and data collection for the survey remained open for six weeks. The first mailing was a postcard inviting the household to participate in the survey. The next mailing contained a cover letter with instructions, the survey questionnaire, and a postage-paid return envelope. The final mailing was a reminder postcard inviting the household one final time to participate in the survey. All mailings included a web link to give residents the opportunity to respond to the survey online, as well as QR codes to further encourage participation. All follow-up mailings asked those who had not completed the survey to do so, and those who had already done so to refrain from completing the survey again.

The survey was available in English and Spanish. All mailings contained paragraphs in both languages instructing participants on how to complete the survey in their preferred language.

About 4% of the 3,000 mailed invitations or surveys were returned because the household address was vacant or the postal service was unable to deliver the survey as addressed. Of the remaining 2,883 households that received the invitations to participate, 393 completed the survey, providing an overall response rate of 14%. Of the 393 responses, 392 were completed in English and 1 was completed in Spanish. The response rate was calculated using AAPOR's response rate #2 for mailed surveys of unnamed persons.²

It is customary to describe the precision of estimates made from surveys by a "level of confidence" and accompanying "confidence interval" (or margin of error). A traditional level of confidence, and the one used here, is 95%. The 95% confidence interval can be any size and quantifies the sampling error or imprecision of the survey results because some residents' opinions are relied on to estimate all residents' opinions. The margin of error for the City of Albany survey is no greater than plus or minus five percentage points around any given percent reported for all respondents (393 completed surveys).

In addition to the randomly selected "probability sample" of households, a link to an online open-participation survey was publicized by the City of Albany. The open-participation survey was identical to the random sample survey, with two small updates; it asked a question to confirm the respondent was a resident of Albany and also a question about where they heard about the survey. The open-participation survey was open to all city residents and became available on December 26, 2023. The survey remained open for three weeks. The data presented in the following tabs exclude the open participation survey data, but a tab at the end provides the complete frequency of responses to questions by the open-participation respondents.

Analyzing the data

Responses from mailed surveys were entered into an electronic dataset using a “key and verify” method, where all responses are entered twice and compared to each other. Any discrepancies were resolved in comparison to the original survey form. Range checks as well as other forms of quality control were also performed. Responses from surveys completed on Polco were downloaded and merged with the mailed survey responses.

The demographics of the survey respondents were compared to those found in the 2020 Census and 2022 American Community Survey estimates for adults in the City of Albany. The primary objective of weighting survey data is to make the survey respondents reflective of the larger population of the community. The characteristics used for weighting were age, sex, race, Hispanic origin, housing type, housing tenure, and area. No adjustments were made for design effects. Weights were calculated using an iterative, multiplicative raking model known as the ANES Weighting Algorithm.³ The results of the weighting scheme for the probability sample are presented in the following table.

NRC aligns demographic labels with those used by the U.S. Census for reporting purposes, when possible. Some categories (e.g., age, race/Hispanic origin, housing type, and length of residency) are combined into smaller subgroups.

The survey datasets were analyzed using all or some of a combination of the Statistical Package for the Social Sciences (SPSS), R, Python and Tableau. For the most part, the percentages presented in the reports represent the “percent positive.” The percent positive is the combination of the top two most positive response options (i.e., excellent/good, very safe/somewhat safe, essential/very important, etc.), or, in the case of resident behaviors/participation, the percent positive represents the proportion of respondents indicating “yes” or participating in an activity at least once a month.

On many of the questions in the survey respondents may answer “don’t know.” The proportion of respondents giving this reply is shown in the full set of responses included in the tab “Complete data”. However, these responses have been removed from the analyses presented in the reports. In other words, the tables and graphs display the responses from respondents who had an opinion about a specific item.

Study Limitations

All public opinion research is subject to unmeasured error. While the methodologies employed for this survey were designed to minimize this error as much as possible, these other sources of potential error should be acknowledged. Non-response error arises when those who were selected to participate in the survey did not do so, and may have different opinions or experiences than those who did respond. Coverage error refers to the possibility that some respondents that should have been included in the surveyed population were not (e.g., for a general resident survey, USPS mailing lists may exclude certain types of housing units, such as multi-family buildings where mail is delivered to a common area rather than to a specific unit (though this is rare), or where mail is received at a PO box instead of the at household's physical location. Finally, recall bias occurs when respondents may not perfectly remember their experiences in the past year (such as participation in social or civic events), and social desirability bias may cause respondents to answer in ways they think cast their responses in a more favorable light.

Key Findings

Albany residents continue to experience a positive quality of life and strong sense of safety.

About 6 in 10 residents rated their quality of life in Albany as excellent or good, as well as the City as a place to raise children. A slightly higher proportion were pleased with Albany as a place to live (69%) and reported they would recommend living in the city (71%).

While safety continues to be a priority for residents, positive marks in this area likely contribute to the high quality of life experienced by residents. About 9 in 10 respondents felt very or somewhat safe in their neighborhood during the day and in Albany's downtown and commercial area during the day, while about three-quarters felt safe from violent crime and fire, flood, or other natural disasters. Safety-related services also garnered support from a high proportion of residents. About 9 in 10 gave favorable marks to fire services, and strong ratings were also given to ambulance/EMS (78% excellent or good), police services (72%), fire prevention and education (72%), and animal control (70%). Each of these listed items were similar to the national benchmarks, and most were in line with 2020 survey results.

Though residents appreciate the natural environment and parks, some aspects have declined.

Overall, residents place a high importance on the natural environment in Albany, with 8 in 10 residents ranking it as an essential or very important area to focus on in the coming two years. About 6 in 10 residents gave the overall quality of the natural environment excellent or good ratings, while about 7 in 10 gave high marks to parks and recreation opportunities. Positive ratings were received by city parks (64% excellent or good), recreation programs or classes (57%), as well as recreation centers or facilities (56%); each of these were on par with national benchmarks as well as the previous iteration of The NCS. However, a number of items in these facets did experience declines. Air quality scores fell by 20% (from 81% in 2020 to 61% in 2023), while about a 10% decrease was observed in the preservation of natural areas (59% to 49%), Albany open space (57% to 47%), and recreational opportunities (52% to 40%).

The economy continues to be a key area of focus for Albany residents, with general affordability posing a growing concern.

When asked about aspects of the community the City should focus on in the next two years, nearly 9 in 10 residents prioritized the overall economic health of the city (88% essential or very important.) About two-thirds gave positive marks to the overall quality of business and service establishments in Albany, while half of residents felt favorably about the vibrancy of downtown and commercial areas of the city, shopping opportunities, and the variety of business and service establishments. Each of these reviews were similar to the national benchmarks and consistent with ratings given in 2020. However, fewer residents gave excellent or good ratings to the overall economic health of Albany (37% excellent or good), Albany as a place to visit (43%), as well as economic development (34%), all of which were lower than comparison communities.

It is worth noting that residents showed increased concern toward the general affordability of Albany. Evaluations of the cost of living experienced a 17% decline (from 46% in 2020 to 29% in 2023), while availability of affordable quality housing was rated as excellent or good by only 18% of respondents. Additionally, significant declines were seen in residents' perceptions of the availability of affordable quality food (52%), health care (47%), and mental health care (25%). These results are not unique to Albany, however, as concerns for overall affordability have been seen widely on the national scale.

Mobility in Albany has seen some fluctuation since the COVID-19 pandemic.

While many ratings pertaining to Albany's transportation system remained consistent with 2020 results, several aspects of mobility have experienced shifts since the City's previous survey. As more vehicles returned to the roads post-pandemic, evaluations around traffic and street services dipped correspondingly. Significant declines were experienced in the ease of public parking (57% excellent or good), traffic flow on major streets (47%), traffic enforcement (48%), and traffic signal timing (51%). In addition, more residents generally reported taking alternative forms of transportation. The number of residents that used public transportation in the past 12 months (19%) increased by nearly 10%, as did the number of residents who carpooled with other adults or children instead of driving alone (54%). Bus or transit services also experienced an increase in favorability, rising 13% (from 29% excellent or good in 2020 to 42% in 2023). Notably, a lower proportion of residents reported having walked or cycled instead of driving (53%), and the ease of walking in Albany also saw a slight decline (49% excellent or good). Continuing to build trend data in these areas will help determine how best to focus efforts going forward.

Facets of livability

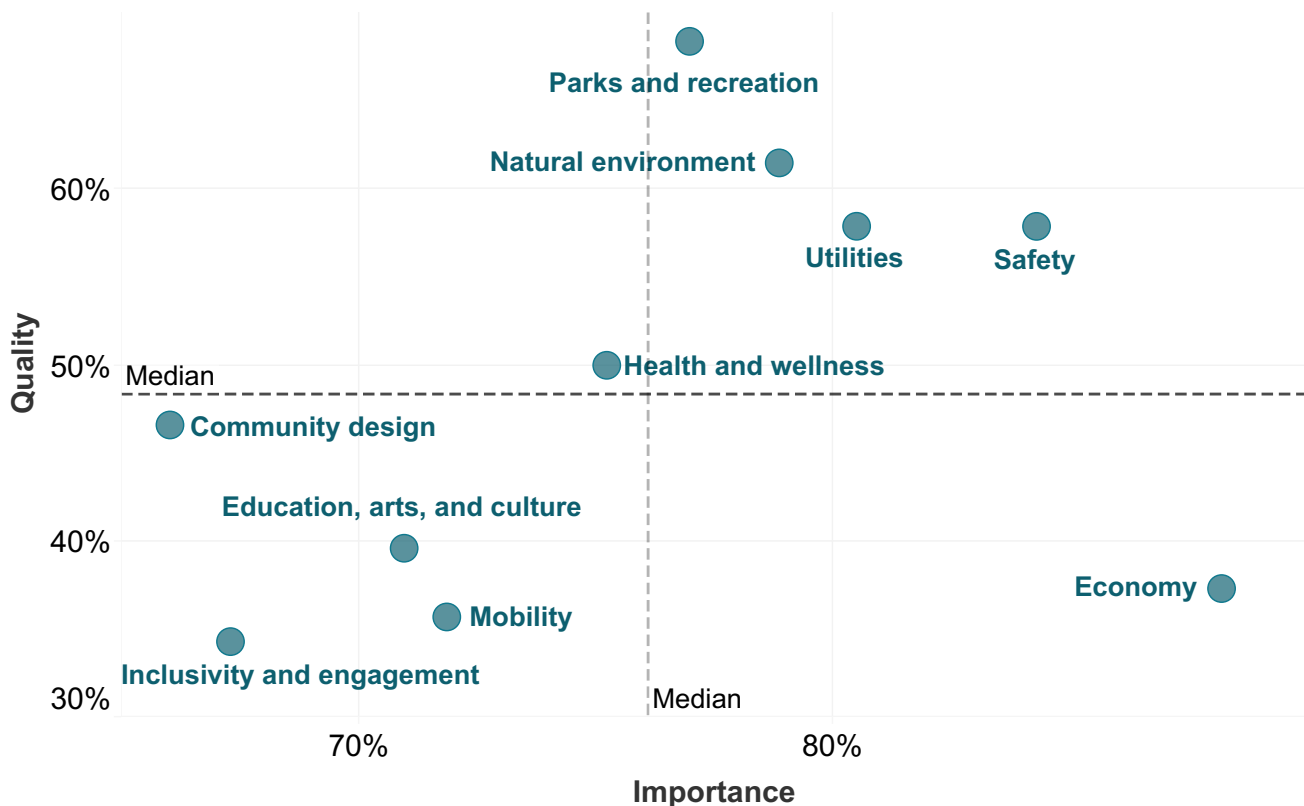

Every jurisdiction must balance limited resources while meeting resident needs and striving to optimize community livability. To this end, it is helpful to know what aspects of the community are most important to residents and which they perceive as being of higher or lower quality. It is especially helpful to know when a facet of livability is considered of high importance but rated as lower quality, as this should be a top priority to address.

Quality-Importance Matrix

To help guide City staff and officials with decisions on future resource allocation, resident ratings of the importance of facets were compared to their ratings of the quality of these facets. To identify the services perceived by residents to have relatively lower quality at the same time as relatively higher importance, all facets were ranked from highest perceived quality to lowest perceived quality and from highest perceived importance to lowest perceived importance. Some facets were in the top half of both lists (higher quality and higher importance); some were in the top half of one list but the bottom half of the other (higher quality and lower importance or lower quality and higher importance); and some facets were in the bottom half of both lists.

48% or more of respondents were considered of “higher quality” and those with ratings lower than 48% were considered to be of “lower quality.” Services were classified as “more important” if they were rated as essential or very important by 76% or more of respondents. Services were rated as “less important” if they received a rating of less than 76%. This classification uses the median ratings for quality and importance to divide the services in half.

The quadrants in the figure below show which community facets were given higher or lower importance ratings (right-left) and which had higher or lower quality ratings (up-down). Facets of livability falling closer to a diagonal line from the lower left to the upper right are those where performance ratings are more commensurate with resident priorities. Facets scoring closest to the lower right hand corner of the matrix (higher in importance and lower in quality) are those that may warrant further investigation to see if changes to their delivery are necessary to improve their performance. This is the key part of this chart on which to focus. Facets falling in the top left hand corner of the chart (lower in importance but higher in quality) are areas where performance may outscore resident priorities, and may be a consideration for lower resource allocation.

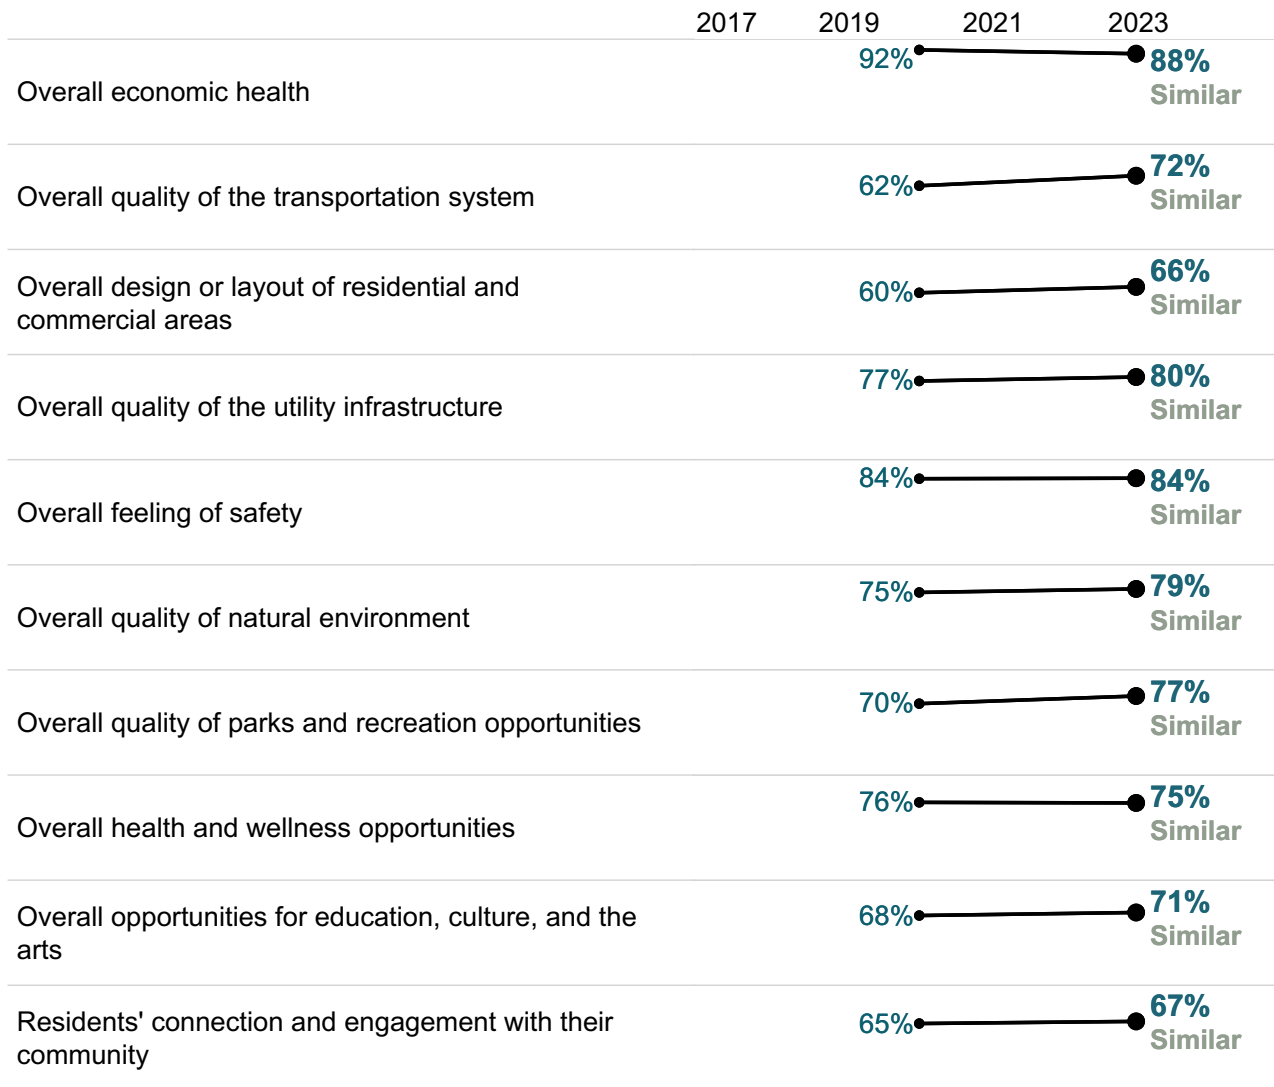

Quality and Importance by the Numbers

The charts below show the proportion of residents who rated the community facets positively for quality and the priority (importance) placed on each. Also displayed is whether local ratings were lower, similar, or higher than communities across the country (the national benchmark).

National Benchmark Tables

This table contains the comparisons of Albany's results to those from other communities. The first column shows the comparison of Albany's rating to the benchmark. Albany's results are noted as being "higher", "lower" or "similar" to the benchmark, meaning that the average rating given by Albany residents is statistically similar to or different than the benchmark. The second column is Albany's "percent positive." Most commonly, the percent positive is the combination of the top two most positive response options (i.e., excellent/good). The third column is the rank assigned to Albany's rating among communities where a similar question was asked. The fourth column is the number of communities that asked a similar question. The fifth column shows the percentile for Albany's result -- that is what percent of surveyed communities had a lower rating than Albany.

Full Trends

This table contains the trends over time for the City of Albany. The combined "percent positive" responses for each survey year are presented (e.g., excellent/good or yes). If an item was not included during an administration of the survey, no percentage will be shown in the table. If the difference between the 2020 and 2023 surveys is greater than seven percentage points, the change is statistically significant.

It is important to note that in 2020, The NCS survey was updated to include new and refreshed items. Consequently, some of the trends may be impacted due to wording modifications that could have potentially altered the meaning of the item for the respondent.

Complete Set of Frequencies

This dashboard contains a complete set of responses to each question on the survey. By default, "don't know" responses are excluded, but may be added to the table using the response filter to the right. In some tables, the percentages may not sum to 100%; this is either because the question permitted the respondent to "choose all that apply", or for a question that asked the respondent to select one answer, it is due to the customary practice of rounding values to the nearest whole number.

Methods (Open Participation)

As part of its participation in The National Community Survey™ (The NCS™), the City of Albany conducted a survey of 393 residents. Survey invitations were mailed to randomly selected households and data were collected from November 28, 2023 to January 9, 2024. The results from this main survey effort represent the most robust estimate of your residents’ opinions.

After the above data collection period was underway, a link to an online open participation survey was publicized by the City of Albany. The open participation survey was identical to the probability sample survey with two small updates; it included a map at the beginning asking where the respondent lives and also a question about where they heard about the survey. The open participation survey was open to all Albany residents and became available on December 26, 2023. The survey remained open for three weeks and there were 466 responses.

The open participation survey data were not collected through a random sample and it is unknown who in the community was aware of the survey; therefore, a level of confidence in the representativeness of the sample cannot be estimated. However, to reduce bias where possible, these data were statistically weighted to match the demographic characteristics of the 2020 Census and 2022 American Community Survey estimates for adults in the City of Albany. The characteristics used for weighting were age, sex, race, Hispanic origin, housing type, housing tenure, and area. No adjustments were made for design effects. Weights were calculated using an iterative, multiplicative raking model known as the ANES Weighting Algorithm.¹⁸ The results of the weighting scheme for the open participation survey are presented in the following table.

Open Participation Survey Results

This dashboard contains a complete set of responses to each question on the open participation survey. By default, "don't know" responses are excluded, but may be added to the table using the response filter to the right. In some tables, the percentages may not sum to 100%; this is either because the question permitted the respondent to "choose all that apply", or for a question that asked the respondent to select one answer, it is due to the customary practice of rounding values to the nearest whole number.
